DROUGHT AREA—This map shows the drought areas in the Southwestern states that President Eisenhower is touring. It pictures where the 1956 rainfall in the hard-hit drought states was 75 per cent or less of normal. The heavier shaded area indicates sections where precipitation was less than 50 per cent of normal. The U. S. Weather Bureau reported that drought conditions in the Southwest are probably the worst since the 18th century.

Ike Tours Drought Area of Southwest

EN ROUTE WITH EISENHOWER (UP)—President Eisenhower rode by automobile and plane today across sections of the southern Great Plains, which are suffering the worst drought in history.

The President's visit to an area where a good soaking rain is only a vague memory served to dramatize the plight of people who have seen their crops burn and their livestock grow thin for more than five years.

The attention Mr. Eisenhower's visit will attract to the drought area is expected to be reflected in an expansion of federal and state credit on both emergency and long range basis in some 15 Midwest, Southwestern and Western states.

Mr. Eisenhower spent the night at Goodfellow Air Force Base, San Angelo, Tex., after a Sunday afternoon flight from Washington. Before he winds up his tour Tuesday night he will have covered some 4,500 miles traveling to drought areas in Texas, Oklahoma, New Mexico, Arizona, Colorado and Kansas.

Benson, Seaton On Trip

Flanked by Secretary of Agriculture Ezra T. Benson and Secretary of Interior Fred A. Seaton, Mr. Eisenhower left by automobile shortly after daybreak for an hour's ride through the farming area south and southeast of San Angelo.

Benson and Seaton are the top government officials who deal directly with problems of crop and livestock production, soil conservation, reclamation and relief.

On the San Angelo itinerary were the farms of Andrew Braden, L. K. Batla, and Cal McGowan. Braden hasn't had a crop in more than four years.

Cotton farmer Batla also has been waging a losing battle for

Wable Reward Split Up by Federal Court

PITTSBURGH (UP)—Claimants for shares of the rewards offered for the capture of the Pennsylvania Turnpike's "phantom killer" reached a quick settlement today before a scheduled federal court trial began.

Attorneys representing 14 persons and the Cleveland Police Relief and Pension Fund quickly agreed on a formula splitting $6,000 into almost equal shares after Federal Judge John H. Miller warned they faced a week in court.

John K. Sheperd, West Alexandria, Pa., the only surviving trucker of the three drivers shot by gunman John Wesley Wable in July and August, 1953, received the biggest share—$500.

Mrs. Leora Crissey Siburt, Wickliffe, Ohio, and her stepfather, John Jandura, were awarded $400 each. Mrs. Siburt was one-time girl friend of the executed slayer, and Jandura found the pistol used by Wable in his home and turned it over to police.

The other claimants will split the remaining money equally for about $344 each.

A total of $11,000 in rewards was posted after a gunman shot and killed two sleeping truckers along the turnpike and wounded Sheperd along an Ohio highway. But $5,000 pledged by a teamsters union was not made available to court authorities. Of the cash actually on hand $5,000 came from the Pennsylvania Motors Truck Assn. and $1,000 from the Continental Transportation Lines, McKees Rocks, Pa.

Dillon Named to State Department

WASHINGTON (UP)—President Eisenhower today nominated C. Douglas Dillon, U.S. ambassador to France, to be deputy undersecretary of state for economic affairs.

Dillon, 45-year-old investment banker, would succeed Herbert V. Prochnow who resigned Nov. 15. Dillon has been ambassador to France since 1953.

Rehoboth Church Pastor Blames Politics in Move to Oust Him

The Rev. J. Nelson Jackaway, pastor of Rehoboth Presbyterian Church in Rostraver Township, appealed to his congregation for support yesterday against what he said is a politically inspired movement to drive him from his pastorate.

Mr. Jackaway has been one of the prominent leaders of the United Commission for Social Action, popularly known as "Operation: Crusade". He is currently chairman of the group.

"Operation: Crusade" is an organization of Protestant ministers in Westmoreland and Fayette counties which was formed about five years ago to battle against rackets and corrupt government.

In a bluntly worded sermon yesterday, Mr. Jackaway told the Rehoboth congregation that he has been under increasingly severe "pressure" from within the congregation as a result of his "Operation: Crusade" activities.

Blaming the "pressure" on Rostraver Township and Westmoreland County political figures, whom he did not mention by name, the pastor said he was putting his future at Rehoboth in the hands of the congregation itself.

The annual meeting of the congregation will be held Wednesday night, he said. Presumably, he intends to have a showdown with his opponents at that time.

Rev. J. Nelson Jackaway

Rehoboth is one of the oldest churches in Western Pennsylvania, pre-dating the Revolutionary War. Mr. Jackaway has been the pastor for eight years.

Under Presbyterian government the relationship between a pastor and a congregation can be dissolved only by mutual consent, except by action of the Presbytery. Rehoboth Church is part of Redstone Presbytery, which has headquarters at Uniontown.

In his sermon, which was heard by more than 150 worshippers, Mr. Jackaway said he had participated in "Operation: Crusade" because he regarded it as part of his duty as a minister to help promote clean government in the township and county.

He said his activities had won him the enmity of powerful forces and these had now succeeded in infiltrating Rehoboth Church for the purpose of eliminating him.

Mr. Jackaway said three members of the session, which is the ruling body in Presbyterian congregations, had suggested to him that he should leave. The Rehoboth session has a membership of nine.

Without naming his three opponents, the minister said he would put his case in the hands of the

Humphrey Bogart, Tough-guy Actor, Is Cancer Victim

HOLLYWOOD (UP) — Actor Humphrey Bogart, 57, veteran movie tough guy and one of Hollywood's most colorful characters, died at his home of cancer today with his wife, actress Lauren Bacall, at his bedside.

The Academy-award winning actor, who had been operated upon a year ago for throat cancer, succumbed during a coma at 5:10 a.m. EST, Dr. Maynard Brandsma said.

A spokesman for the family said funeral services would be conducted Thursday.

"Bogart was still talking to everybody Saturday night" Dr. Brandsma said. "Sunday morning he went into a coma. He went to sleep and just didn't wake up."

"Early this morning he took a deep breath and died."

Original Cancer Spreads

The doctor said Bogart was a victim specifically of carsinoma, a general spread of the original cancer.

"Bogey," as the actor was nicknamed, had turned 57 last Christmas Day.

The end for the lovable, Academy Award-winning actor came at his Holmby Hills home where he had been recuperating from a hospital stay he took last month in an effort to alleviate pain from scar tissue formed after an operation for throat cancer a year ago.

His doctor said he had been "in some pain for the last few weeks."

His actress - wife said she preferred that no flowers be sent to the funeral but that contributions be made to the American Cancer Society instead.

Bogart had been married since

U. S. Plan for Disarmament Is Explained to UN

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (UP) — The United States today proposed a five-point disarmament plan providing for peaceful use of all future nuclear production and aiming at the ultimate prohibition of atomic and hydrogen test explosions.

Outlining the program to the United Nations Main Political Committee, U. S. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge Jr. also proposed a cutback in manpower to 2.5 million for the United States and Russia and 750,000 for Britain and France; control of outer space satellite tests and safeguards against surprise attack.

The disarmament proposals, he said, would be carried out only under an effective inspection system. In the case of armed forces, such inspection would include President Eisenhower's "open skies" plan for aerial reconnaissance as well as utilizing ground inspection teams.

Deputy Soviet Foreign Minister Vasily V. Kuznetsov, repeating Russia's previous arms reduction proposals, offered a resolution to call a special session of the General Assembly on disarmament.

Lists U.S. Objectives

Lodge summarized these five objectives for the U.S. arms reduction plan:

"1. To reverse the trend toward larger stockpiles of nuclear weapons and to reduce the future nuclear threat.

"2. To provide against great surprise attack and thus reduce the danger of major war.

"3. To lessen the burden of armaments and to make possible improved standards of living.

"4. To insure that research and development activities concerning the propulsion of objects through outer space is devoted exclusively to scientific and peaceful purposes.

"5. To ease tensions and to facilitate settlement of difficult political issues."

"The U.S.," Lodge said, "proposes that an agreement be reached under which at an early date, under effective international inspection all future production of fissionable materials shall be used or stockpiled exclusively for non-weapons purposes under international supervision.

"... Scientists throughout the world know that it is impossible to account with essential certainty, or to discover through any known scientific means of inspection, all the fissionable materials produced in the past, or all of the existing accumulation of nuclear weapons. It is not possible to turn back the clock of nuclear discovery and development nor to repeal the nuclear age.

"One thing which can be done and which, for the sake of humanity, the U.S. proposes should be done, is to establish effective international control of the future production of fissionable materials and to exchange firm commitments to use all future production exclusively for non-weapons purposes.

"When such commitments are executed, it would then be possible to move reliably toward the reduction of existing stockpiles...

"Under this program, the U.S., for its part, would make generous, progressive transfers of fissionable materials to peaceful uses, just as it has previously an-

Six-year-old Boy Struck by Car; Is Unhurt

A six-year-old boy was struck by a car in one of the four motor accidents in Monessen over the weekend, police reported today.

Henry Henderson, Jr., 6, of 1116 Schoonmaker avenue, escaped apparent injury when struck by a car operated by Harry Winstone, Sr., of 13 Monessen boulevard, yesterday afternoon near the intersection of Third street and Schoonmaker avenue.

Winstone said the boy ran into the path of his car while he was traveling east on Schoonmaker. Police said the boy immediately jumped up and ran away. Winstone located him later and took him to a physician for examination. The physician reported no injury.

Considerable car and property damage resulted when Mrs. Amelia Spontak, of 928 Dennis avenue, lost control of the car she was driving near Maple avenue and South 14th street about 9 o'clock Saturday night.

The car struck a Green Cab driven by Glenn Kimball, glanced off and crashed through a fence on the property of Frank Mikas, of 1264 Maple avenue. It kept

Coldest Weather Of Winter Hits Monessen Area

The coldest weather of the season swept into the Monessen district last night and today and sent the temperature down to a low of seven degrees above zero at 7 o'clock this morning.

The cold wave was accompanied by a snowfall ranging from two to four inches. The icy blasts were attributed to a weak low pressure area which moved northward from North Carolina.

At noon yesterday the mercury stood at 28 degrees. It went down to 18 above at 9 p. m., 16 at midnight and kept falling steadily until it reached the low of seven degrees at 7 o'clock this morning. It began climbing at 8 a. m. and at noon the reading was 16 above.

Low temperatures tonight in the Monessen area were expected to range from zero to 12 degrees above.

The cold wave was expected to continue through tomorrow with the highest temperatures in the teens or low 20's.

The snow and wind coupled with the low temperatures made driving conditions hazardous. State Police at Belle Vernon, however, reported no major accidents. They said motorists were using extreme caution and traveling at a "snail's pace."

Cinder crews from the Monessen Streets Departments went to work on the City's ice-slick streets last night and were still spreading cinders late this morning. Highway work crews also began their chores on most main highways before midnight.

The Pennsylvania Turnpike was snow and ice covered, and the speed limit was cut to 35 miles an hour.

Apartment Fire Claims One Victim

FAIRBANKS, Alaska (UP)—Firemen said today it was "miraculous" only one person died in fire which swept through the first floor of an apartment building here Sunday, temporarily trapping 250 tenants on upper floors.

At least nine persons were hospitalized from inhaling smoke or injuries suffered from leaping into fire nets from the eight-story building.

Rarick Repeats Charge He Was Offered Bribe

PITTSBURGH (UP) — Don C. Rarick, a millworker who seeks to oust David J. McDonald as president of the United Steelworkers, has repeated his charge he was offered a quarter-million dollars to withdraw from the union's Feb. 12 elections.

The McKeesport, Pa., millhand presented "the facts" in a prepared statement issued before leaving for Chicago Sunday night "to continue this fight for a democratic union."

Rarick said he was approached by two representatives of the international union and another party "not a USW official" who promised him financial security for the rest of his life if he would withdraw.

McDonald has branded the charge an "unmitigated lie" and a "base and scurrilous personal attack, reflecting on the integrity of international officers."

'These Are Facts'

Rarick, in an unexplained reference, suggested McDonald recall "the meeting I had with him on Dec. 31 and of our discussion."

"These are the facts," Rarick said, "I was approached by two representatives of the international union on quitting the race. I was approached the day before Christmas and afterwards. I was etaoin shrdlu cmfwyp vbgkqj xz-. not a USW official."

Rarick said he was "given reason to believe that if I withdrew I would be given money to make me financially secure for the rest of my life, and a well paying job. These inducements, I was led to believe, would amount to a quarter of a million dollars."

Rarick, international chairman of a committee protesting an increase in union dues from $3 to $5 a month, declared:

"I am still in this fight for a democratic union, a union wherein members will be accorded their rights. No amount of money can tempt me to withdraw."

Rarick will speak tonight at a meeting of USW members at the U. S. Steel Corp. Gary Works, the largest unit in the 1,200,000-member union.

He also planned to attend a USW executive board meeting scheduled to hear appeals from four candidates for union office who claim they were denied their rightful place on the ballot despite the required number of local nominations.

Bookkeeper at Uniontown Bank Faces Hearing

PITTSBURGH (UP)—Mary Jo Anne Ryland, 27, bookkeeper at the Gallatin National Bank in Uniontown, will have a hearing today before a United States commissioner here on a charge of embezzlement of bank funds.

Miss Ryland, an employe of the bank for nine years, was arrested by the FBI Saturday and accused of embezzling $17,500 from the bank.

Justice of the Peace John Bellish of North Union Twp., Fayette County, permitted her to remain at home during the week end on bond.

Paul Malone, president of the bank, said Miss Ryland "readily admitted the shortages," uncovered during an audit, and made $5,000 restitution.

Miss Ryland lives with her mother and stepfather in Tarrs Station, Fayette County.

Police believe the burglary happened about 4 o'clock. It was discovered by Bob Pyzynski, who lives upstairs. He saw the side door open when he left for work at 6:45 a. m.

The tourney attracted approximately 400 students from 25 schools.

Vesta Mine Closing Is Hard Blow to the California Area

CALIFORNIA, Pa. (UP) — Time was running out for the mainstay of this Washington County area's economic life today to the dismay and despair of the residents.

Jones & Laughlin Steel Corp. has announced that on April 1 it will close its nearby Vesta No. 4 coal mine, which for 53 years has pumped money into the pockets of workers and the tills of merchants.

Residents had known the days of the mine were numbered, but the shutdown announcement came with unexpected suddenness. The closing will throw out of work the 790 workers remaining from the one-time force of 4,000. A $5 million a year payroll will be lost to district business.

In the long years the mine operated, 82.5 million tons of coal poured from its portals into river barges for the 35-mile trip down the Monongahela to the mills of Pittsburgh. Now, J & L has decided the remaining supply of unmined coal has dropped to the point where it would be "grossly uneconomical" to dig it.

"I don't know what I'm going to do," declared Henry Tetler, 48, California, a Vesta coal cutter. "I'm too old to get another job."

"There are no other jobs around here," said Kenneth Sanders, 49, a cage operator who lives in nearby Daisytown.

J & L officials said they were sympathetic with the workers' situation and will do everything they can to get them jobs, but E. R. Cooper, general manager of the mine, admitted he knows of no job prospects for the men.

J & L will continue to operate the adjacent Vesta No. 5 mine and the coal preparation plant, but employment will be reduced to 1,410.

Most of the residents of the town of 2,800 knew Vesta No. 4

Series of Accidents in Valley Over Weekend

A series of accidents occurred in the district over the weekend.

Three Monessen men were slightly injured in a one-car accident about 3:30 a. m. yesterday.

Injured, were Thomas McGovern, 28, of 1025 Graham avenue, the driver, bruises of the right wrist and sprained left ankle; Joseph Gladys, 24, of 230 Knox avenue, bruises of both legs, ankles and knees and sprained right ankle, and Edward Gladys, 29, of 251 Linden avenue, lacerations of the right thumb and bruises about the chest.

All were treated at Charleroi-Monessen Hospital and released.

According to reports, the car failed to negotiate a turn at Hagerty's curve near the Monongahela Country Club on Route 88. The car went out of control and hit a tree.

In another weekend accident, three persons were injured and one operator cited in a two-car accident on Route 51 at the stoplight intersection with Route 31, State Police reported.

The injured were Clarence Tayman, 33, of Washington, whom police said will be prosecuted for operating too fast for conditions; Anna Kudulik, 50, and Joseph Kudulik, 62, both of R. D. 3, Belle Vernon, and passengers in a car driven by Theodore Chiris, 22, of Sutersville. They were treated for minor lacerations at Charleroi-Monessen Hospital. Kudulik was detained at the hospital.

Troopers said Tayman's car struck the rear of Chiris' vehicle. Damage was estimated at $1,700.

Three Mount Pleasant residents were injured in a one-car accident on Route 71 Saturday night and

Urges Funds for Mental Hospitals

PHILADELPHIA (UP) — Charles H. Frazier, president of the Pennsylvania Mental Health, Inc., urged the state General Assembly today to provide adequate funds to sustain the recent upswing in the care and treatment of the 50,000 patients in the state's mental hospitals.

Frazier also appealed to the state legislators of both parties to "continue a bi-partisan policy with respect to the Commonwealth's mental health program."

W. Va. Governor in Surprise Inaugural

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UP)—Cecil H. Underwood was sworn in as West Virginia's 25th governor at 12.06 a.m. today in a private ceremony in his downtown hotel suite. He declined to wait until the formal inauguration at noon before beginning his term.

A spokesman said the surprise move was made because of the situation regarding appointments made by outgoing Democratic Gov. William C. Marland.

Some 25 persons, most of them relatives and close friends, crowded into Underwood's suite at the Kanawha Hotel to watch notary public Raymond Brown administer the oath. The ceremony became official when Secretary of State D. Pitt O'Brien was notified a short time later at his home.

Also attending the surprise ceremonies were Republican State Chairman John D. Hoblitzell Jr., Senate Minority Leader John Carrigan (R-Marshall) and House Minority Leader George H. Seibert Jr. (R-Ohio).

Marland had planned to send a list of appointments to the Senate this morning for confirmation. They included two appointments to the state Board of Education, reappointment of state Police Supt. R. W. Bowles and a number of lesser appointments.

A GOP spokesman said Underwood may have forestalled this move by beginning its term before Marland could submit the appointments.

The state constitution provides that the term of an incoming governor shall begin on the Monday following the second Wednesday of January following his election, so that Underwood became eligible to take office immediately after midnight.

It was also believed that the move was designed partly to forestall a last-minute resignation by U.S. Sen. M. M. Neely, who could have been replaced by a Democrat appointed by Marland if he resigned any time before Underwood took office.

Neely has been ill in recent months, although he was able to attend the organization of the Senate earlier this month. Should a vacancy now occur in his office, Underwood would name a Republican successor, thus swinging control of the closely-divided Senate to the GOP.

One Fatal Accident Blamed on Ice, Snow

By UNITED PRESS

Snow, wind and sub-freezing temperatures made driving conditions hazardous in most of Pennsylvania during the weekend.

But despite the treacherous roadways, state police recorded only one fatal accident attributed directly to snow or ice.

In all, five persons were killed in traffic mishaps from 6 p.m. Friday to midnight Sunday.

The fatalities:

Lancaster: George W. Resch, 54, Lancaster, died Sunday at St. Joseph's Hospital here on injuries suffered the night before when struck by an automobile. The driver of the car, identified as Philip Randisi, 26, also Lancaster, told police Resch staggered backwards off a curb into the path of his vehicle.

Johnstown: The Rev. Kresto Roganovich, 49, pastor of St. Petka's Serbian Orthodox Church here, and a passenger in his car, Catherine Gjurich, also of Johnstown, were killed Saturday in a head-on automobile collision on Route 403 about three miles north of here. State police said Rev. Roganovich's car collided with a vehicle operated by Mrs. Gertrude Silverblatt, 49, Pittsburgh, on an icy stretch of highway. Mrs. Silverblatt and Mrs. Bessie Paulovich, the third occupant of the minister's car, were taken to Lee Memorial Hospital where they were listed in critical condition.

Franklin: Teresa Shiffer, 4, suffered fatal injuries Saturday when her sled crashed into a neighbor's car on a rural road near her home in Oakland Twp., about 10 miles north of here. Police identified the driver of the car as James Boyer.

Pittsburgh: Howard Ireland, 28, Blawnox, was killed Saturday in a head-on automobile collision on Route 28 north of here. Police said Ireland was riding in a car, operated by PFC Louis Krause, 18, Corydon, which crashed into a vehicle operated by Gerald Buckew, 35, Pittsburgh. Both drivers and three other passengers in the vehicles were injured seriously.

Sellersville: Fred R. Christi, 41, Perkasie, died Saturday night after the car he was driving spun out of control on Route 563 near here in Bucks County and crashed into an embankment. His wife, Frieda, 22, was treated for minor cuts and bruises.

The government formerly laundered paper money but gave it up when it found the process shortened the life of the money and dulled the engraving.

Tranquilizers May Help Dental Patient

By H. N. BUNDESEN, M. D.

Your next trip to the dentist may be a much more pleasant experience than previously, thanks to new tranquilizing drugs.

The mere thought of having a tooth pulled, or even filled, causes at least some amount of apprehension in virtually all of us. In some persons this apprehension reaches the point where the slightest stimulation produces an exaggerated reaction.

The psychic factor is an important part of all pain sensations. It is a particularly vital element in dental pain.

Your reaction to pain is attributable at least in part to your previous experience and to your adjustment to that experience. It also depends a great deal upon the direction in which the stimulus is channeled through the thalamus, or emotional response center of the brain.

Dr. Irving G. Nathanson, a Boston oral surgeon who has had vast experience in such matters, suggests that by taking a tranquilizing drug prior to a visit to a dentist's office a patient probably will become more relaxed and cooperative and less apprehensive.

By acting to improve a person's attitude toward the dental procedure, he explains, the threshold of pain is increased.

The tranquilizers channel impulses from the thalamus to produce relaxation instead of tenseness. Therefore, the patient will tolerate various dental procedures because the passage of disturbing impulses along the nerve apparently is blocked by the tranquilizing drug.

In other words, it ain't gonna hurt so much—most likely. And both you and the dentist are likely to enjoy the visit a lot more than usual.

However, let me caution you against using any tranquilizers without the advice of your physician. Better check with your own dentist, too. See if he agrees with Dr. Nathanson.

'Bud' Collyer Takes on New Question Bee

NEW YORK (UP)— The long green will get a short shuffle on TV from here on in, according to veteran quiz emcee Clayton "Bud" Collyer.

Collyer, shepherd of "Beat The Clock" since 1950, recently took on a new CBS-TV question bee, "To Tell The Truth," which doles out no more than $1000 per joust. Despite the low-calorie lettuce, the show seems to be healthy and clicking.

"I think the days of the money giveaways are pretty definitely on the wane," said Collyer today. "You know, when '$64,000 Question' started, I gave it a year and a half of good ratings.

"I think I've proved a pretty good prophet. It's pretty clear 'Question' and the shows that have imitated it don't have the impact they once had — despite the fact the big money is still there.

"What counts over the long haul is the game itself—the format of the show and how much basic appeal it holds for an audience. I think we've got that kind of a game with 'To Tell The Truth' — the audience doesn't know the answers, but they don't need specialized knowledge to solve the problem."

TV packagers Mark Goodson and Bill Todman ("What's My Line," "I've Got A Secret") began cooking up the show two and a half years ago.

Shivers Holds Senate Balance

New Texan May Be Republican

WASHINGTON (UP)—The Democrat's precarious hold on the Senate will hang in the balance after Tuesday when Sen Price Daniel (D-Tex) resigns to become governor of Texas.

His resignation will give retiring Texas Gov. Allan Shivers an opportunity to appoint a successor to Daniel, pending a special election,

Since Shivers is an Eisenhower Democrat, the question arises as to whether an appointee named by him would vote with the Democrats or Republicans to organize the Senate.

The Democrats, as a result of the 1956 elections, now have a 49-47 edge in the Senate, counting Daniel. But Senate Republican leaders are prepared to take over control whenever they can count 48 votes, because they can count on the tie-breaking vote of Vice President Richard M. Nixon.

Republicans differ, however, over whether they should make the move if it depends on the vote of a temporary appointee from Texas. If Texas elected a Democratic senator in a special election which must be held within 60 to 90 days, Democrats would be in a position to recapture Senate control by mid-April or earlier.

The special election will determine who will serve out the remaining two years of Daniel's term.

Other congressional news:

Budget: The budget President Eisenhower sends to Congress Wednesday is expected to total $72 billion, making it the largest peacetime budget on record. It is expected to balance, however, because it is anticipated that tax revenues will exceed spending.

Taxes: Republican Reps. Gerald Ford and Alvin Bentley (Mich) said they would introduce in the House today two bills to give a tax break to persons driving their cars to and from work. They said that tax laws now give salesmen and professional persons a deduction for depreciation on their cars when used for business purposes and that all workers should receive the same advantage.

EDDIE CANTOR — 65 — Comedian-actor Eddie Cantor tries to count the candles on the cake as he celebrated his 65th birthday at a party in his Hollywood, Calif., home.

Eddie Cantor Is Improved

HOLLYWOOD (UP)—Comedian Eddie Cantor showed marked improvement today following his collapse at the end of an hour long television show honoring his 65th birthday.

The banjo-eyed entertainer of vaudeville, movies and television was reported sitting up and "feeling fine" at Cedars of Lebanon Hospital, where he was taken after his collapse on the Saturday night show.

Dr. Eliot Corda, who has accompanied Cantor on all public performances since his heart attack in 1952, said the comedian was "not in any immediate danger" and probaly would be hospitalized for a few days.

If such an arrangement to control the use of future fissionable production can be put into effect, Lodge said, "it would then be possible, in a secure manner, to limit, and ultimately to eliminate, all nuclear test explosions."

"The U.S. proposes that this be done," Lodge said. "Pending the negotiation of such an agreement, the U.S. is also willing to work out promptly methods for advance notice and registration of all nuclear tests, as has been suggested by the delegation of Norway, and to provide for limited international observation of such tests

"This could be an effective forerunner of far-reaching agreement affecting both the nuclear threat itself and testing, in particular."

They were Richard Hart, 22, Eugene Shumar, 18, and Charles Whitkey, 20. They suffered minor lacerations and bruises. State Police had no report of the accident.

Details were also lacking in another Route 71 accident in which two Charleroi youths were hurt Saturday night.

According to the hospital, Robert Gray, 19, the driver, and Edward Paoly, 19, both of 209½ Louella avenue, Charleroi, suffered minor bruises and lacerations. They were treated and released, the hospital report revealed.

Property damage also resulted when an unidentified car ran into a wooden fence and pipes at a garage used by Joseph Mancini at the corner of 10th street and Knox avenue sometime yesterday morning. Mancini, who lives at 427 Tenth street, discovered the damage at 9 a. m. yesterday.

A minor accident occurred near Fourth street and Donner avenue Saturday afternoon and involved cars operated by Jean Belak, of 1108 Summit avenue, Monessen, and Margaret Wick, of Monongahela.

development corporation, said he believed the drive for new industry had started two decades too late and that now there are too many communities competing for industries.

Many towns in the Southwestern Pennsylvania coal fields have been hit as the seams became depleted and the steel companies looked to new mines farther south for their vital supplies of metallurgical coal.

J & L said the loss of production from Vesta No. 4 will be made up by expansion of its Shannopin mine in Greene County, only four miles from the West Virginia border, and by increased purchases of coal from southern West Virginia.

Seneca Indians Fight To Keep Their Homes

SALAMANCA, N.Y. (UP)—Residents of the Seneca Indian reservation here expressed confidence today that the federal government will observe the treaty of 1794 and let them remain in their homes.

Although a court ruling Friday gave the Army Corps of Engineers the go-ahead to begin surveying for a flood control project, the Senecas said they would not be pressured into moving. The Army Corps of Engineers wants to begin surveying for a proposed $125-million project.

But the Senecas say the treaty guarantees them their reservation lands "as long as the Allegheny River flows and the sun and moon shine."

Judge Justin C. Morgan of Buffalo Friday upheld a federal court ruling permitting the Army Corps of Engineers to take temporary possession of 21,250 acres of reservation land for construction of a flood control dam at Kinuza, Pa.

Edward E. O'Neill, attorney representing the Seneca Nation, decared that he would appeal Judge Morgan's decision "by Wednesday at the latest."

The opinion of Albert Jones, a 69-year-old Seneca whose home overlooks the Allegheny River, was typical of reservation residents.

Jones said the reservoir would flood out his home and an estimated 250 other Indian families.

"Our people have been here many years," he said. "We only want to be left alone here. We are poor people. We cannot afford to move and build somewhere else."

U. S. Photographer Arrested in Hungary

BUDAPEST (UP)— The Communist Hungarian government today admitted American free-lance photographer Georgette Dickey Meyer-Chapelle is under arrest in Hungary.

Mrs. Meyer - Chapelle, of Milwaukee, Wis., vanished after leaving Vienna Dec. 5. Friends said she had crossed into Hungary to take photographs.

A spokesman at the American legation said it was informed today by the Hungarian government of her arrest.

(Another American was arrested by Hungarian Communist borderguards Saturday while trying to guide refugees across the Austrian border. Austrian police identified him as Dick Roaraback, 26, of Dobbs Ferry, N.Y. Seized with him was Einar Roos, 25, of Oslo, Norway.

(Austrian police said the two men were arrested in Hungarian territory near the Austrian border village of Andau, southeast of Vienna. Both were members of the International Rescue Committee, an American private organization aimed at helping refugees to escape from Iron Curtain countries.)

Mrs. Meyer-Chapelle, about 35, was shooting pictures for the International Rescue Committee.

The legation spokesman said American officials had made frequent representations to the Janos Kadar regime since Mrs. Meyer-Chapelle vanished.

congregation, which elects members of the session at the annual meeting.

Describing the "pressure" under which he said he has been working, Mr. Jackaway pointed out that his salary has not been increased since he accepted the pastorate eight years ago.

"This is in spite of the fact that the Presbytery repeatedly has insisted that pastoral salaries be increased," he said.

Mr. Jackaway's salary is understood to be $3,000 a year plus use of the manse and an allowance for utility services

"Are these practices just a part of the orders coming down from the hill?" he asked, without explaining the reference.

Mr. Jackaway made several direct references to political conditions in Westmoreland County.

Recalling an expose which appeared in Collier's Magazine in 1950, he said it had led to the formation of "Operation: Crusade".

"They (the ministers) soon discovered," he said, "that the magazine did not underestimate the powers and the vice and corruption with which the ministers soon were faced.

"In referring to the raid on the Getodo Club in Monessen, the article pointed out the way in which Judge Edward G. Bauer reprimanded the State Police for making a raid in Westmoreland County without first notifying Westmoreland officials, and then ordered them to return all the confiscated gambling equipment to the owners of the club, and, because three men had pleaded guilty, fined them as lightly as possible and dismissed the case with the order that the State Police should not come into the county again but get out and stay out.

"It is this same Judge Bauer who is now coming up for reelection. The one who said to you, 'You are not going to do anything about the vice, the gambling and the rottenness of your county. We're going to run this thing to suit ourselves'.

"He is a sample of your judiciary in Westmoreland County."

Mr. Jackaway said Rostraver Township has been under both political and economic control. He said even school teachers have been subjected to political pressure.

"The purse strings of the township," he said, "have often been maneuvered through key persons to gain favors and to cause persons to do things they would not ordinarily do.

"Economic control has been exercised over you by reason of your business activities and sometimes by taxes. Now this oppression has reached into the very heart of the church and there are those who have been trying to force your pastor out by just this economic control."

Mr. Jackaway claimed that another "Operation: Crusade" leader, the Rev. William B. Cook, had been forced to leave the United Presbyterian Church of Greensburg in 1952 by similar pressure.

Mr. Jackaway told The Daily Independent today that "Operation: Crusade" definitely will be active in the election campaigns this year. It has been more or less dormant since the former chairman, Dr. Allan J. Howes, former pastor of the Methodist Church, left Monessen to take a pastorate in Uniontown about two years ago

"We have held two meetings so far," Mr. Jackaway said, "and there will be another meeting in Greensburg this week. No decisions have been made, but I can tell you that we intend to resume our activities."

Although "Operation: Crusade" has been non-partisan, it has incurred the wrath of leaders of the Democratic courthouse organization whom it has held responsible for coddling rackets and condoning fraudulent elections. Rostraver Township long has been one of the strongholds of the courthouse group.

Bogart

1945 to sultry Miss Bacall, and their marriage was one of the few between actors and actresses that was successful. They had two children, Stephen, born in 1949, and Leslie, born in 1952.

The veteran actor's bout with cancer came to light last March when he was operated upon for removal of a two inch growth from his esophagus. At first Bogart said the growth was not malignant, but in later months he confirmed rumors the trouble had been cancer.

Bogart made his stage acting debut in "Swifty", described by the late critic Alexander Woolcott as "inadequate." But the actor overcame his bad notices to act in such Broadway successes as "Saturday's Children" and "Hell's Bells". His role in "The Petrified Forest" was repeated in the movie version in 1932, and Bogart became a screen star

Enters Tough Guy Field

He muscled into a field dominated by Paul Muni, Edward G. Robinson and James Cagney to become a tough guy in Warner pictures of the 30s. "Kid Galahad", "Angels With Dirty Faces", "Bad Sister", "Dark Victory", "Virginia City", "They Drive By Night", 'High Sierra" and "The Maltese Falcon" were among his popular pictures.

Bogart was married four times, to Mary Phillips, Helen Mencken and actress Mayo Methot. He and Miss Methot were separated shortly after he met a green-eyed model from New York, Lauren Bacall, when they co-starred in "To Have And Have Not." Miss Methot sued Bogart for divorce May 10, 1945, and the actor and Miss Bacall were wed at the home of writer Louis Bromfield in Mansfield, Ohio, 11 days later.

He is expected to hear similar stories from farmers and ranchers near Woodward, Okla., and Clovis, N. M., later in the day.

Mr Eisenhower's main purpose is to find out if drought-area residents are getting adequate help, and the kind of help that will encourage them to weather through until the rain comes. Benson and Seaton and their experts will be there to hear, too.

Khrushchev Attacks 'Doctrine'

LONDON UP—Soviet Communist Party Leader Nikita Khrushchev said Sunday the Eisenhower Doctrine for the Middle East undoubtedly will wind up 'on the garbage heap of history."

Khrushchev attacked President Eisenhower's proposed program of American assistance to Arab nations in a speech to the Uzbek Council of Ministers and the Communist Central Committee in Tashken, Radio Moscow reported.

Predicing that the Eisenhower Doctrine will be thrown on history's "garbage heap," Khrushchev said Arab nations look to the Soviet Union as a bulwark of freedom because it has "risen to such heigats and gained such great achievements."

"It is true that the United States also opposed to a certain extent the aggressive action of Britain, France and Israel," he said. "But it soon became clear that this in no way has been prompted by a desire of ruling circles in the United States to help Arab nations consolidate their freedom."

Reds Will Risk All for Mideast, Dulles Claims

WASHINGTON (UP) — Secretary of State John Foster Dulles said today the Communists will take "every risk that they dare . . . to win the Midde East."

Outcome of the strugge for power, he said, could well be the decisive test in the struggle between Communism and freedom."

The secretary appearcd at a joint hearing of the Senate Armed Services and Foreign Relations committees to press his fight for quick approval of the Eisenhower Doctrine and to keep Democrats from watering it down.

"If the Middle East loses its freedom," he said, "the result will be to nullify a great part of the efforts and sacrifices which have been made by the free peoples in recent years.

"International Communism," he said, "will have gained a great and perhaps decisive victory . . .

"If the Middle East stays free, we can reasonably look forward to gains for freedom throughout all the world."

Dulles said Congress has "perhaps decisive assets" to throw into the struggle and should not be content when the stakes are so great to merely play the role of observer.

Generally, Dulles repeated the same plea he made before the House Foreign Affairs Committee last week for prompt approval of the President's arms-aid request.

Several Democrats in both the House and Senate were working on sharply toned-down substitutes for the Eisenhower plan.

Four members of the Senate foreign relations group who have expressed reservations about the President's original proposal conferred informally last week on a possible substitute. The four—Sens. J. William Fulbright (Ark), Mike Mansfield (Mont), Hubert H. Humphrey (Minn) and John J. Sparkman (Ala) — were ready to subject Dulles to some critical questioning today.

Chairman Thomas Gordon (D-Ill) of the House committee called that group's Democratic members to a closed meeting today to decide how they stand on a substitute offered by Rep. Clement J. Zablocki (D-Wis).

Zablocki's proposal would merely state that Congress stands united behind the President in his attempts to bring peace to the Middle East.

Mr. Eisenhower was seeking much more than that.

He has asked Congress to give him statutory autnority to use U.S. troops in the Middle East, if necessary, to resist any Communist aggression. He also wants approval of a $400 million program of economic and military aid to strengthen Middle East nations.

Ike Warned to Be Cautious In Inviting Tito

WASHINGTON (UP) — House Democratic Leader John W. McCormack (Mass) has warned President Eisenhower that the foreign aid bill faces tough sledding if he invites Communist President Tito of Yugoslavia to visit this country.

McCormack said an official invitation from President Eisenhower would be "an insult" to the American people.

He added in a statement Sunday night that "the resentment of the people would make it more difficult to pass an effective foreign assistance bill, as well as obtain the necessary appropriations."

McCormack, citing strong rumors of a Tito trip to Washington, said that "whatever dealings our country have had with Tito have been purely on the basis of expediency, and his dealings with our country have been on the same basis."

However, several other members of Congress, including Sens. Alexander Wiley (R-Wis) and John Sparkman (D-Ala), have taken the position that it was up to Mr. Eisenhower to decide whether such a visit might benefit this country.

Workers Facing Death in New Red Terror Reign

VIENNA (UP)— A new Red reign of terror was threatened in Hungary today where workers faced death by execution for opposing the Communist regime.

In a ruthless move that virtually abolished the right to strike, the Janos Kadar regime threatened rebellious workers with summary death sentences and set up kangaroo courts to help military tribunals mete out swift "justice."

The decree placed almost every Hungarian man, woman and child under the shadow of the hangman's noose or the firing squad's rifles.

It imposed the death punishment for anyone instigating a strike, damaging public installations, entering government-owned plants without permission and "disturbing the activity of factory by his presence or by any other means."

The drastic measures went into force in an additional clause added to the martial law decree imposed last month. It was clearly aimed at warding off the threat of a new "total strike," in the wake of the shooting of unarmed workers by Communist Hungarian militiamen in Budapest last Friday.

Reports reaching Vienna indicated workers at Budapest's Csepel Island iron and steel complex were on the verge of calling a new strike when the decree was publicized.

Ex-Senator Dies

CHICAGO (UP)— Former U. S. Sen. C. Wayland (Curley) Brooks, 59, of Chicago died today at Passavant Hospital following a heart attack.

MacMILLAN STRUGGLES TO FORM NEW GOVERNMENT—New British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan, his wife and daughter leave their Downing street home for a short walk. Macmillan, struggling to form a new government, sought the advice and guidance of Sir Winston Churchill and other Conservative party leaders.

Britain to Maintain Firm Policy in the Middle East

LONDON (UP) — Prime Minister Harold Macmillan, in retaining Selwyn Lloyd as foreign secretary, served notice Britain has no intention of backing down from its firm Middle East policy, political observers said today.

The appointment of Lloyd to the cabinet post he held under Sir Anthony Eden came as a surprise. There had been demands for a new team to repair the Anglo-American relations damaged by the British Suez venture.

But instead of making the expected clean break with the ministers who most actively supported Eden's intervention policy, Macmillan retained or promoted them.

The new 18-man cabinet Macmillan submitted Friday for Queen Elizabeth's token approval included 12 ministers who served in the Eden government.

Only important Eden man to be dropped was Anthony Head. He was succeeded as defense minister by Duncan Sandys, 48, a son-in-law of Sir Winston Churchill. Head served as housing minister in the last government.

Another switch in the defense team saw Viscount Hailsham, 49, the outspoken first lord of the Admiralty, shuttled to the Ministry of Education.

R. A. Butler, 54, majority leader in Commons who was passed over for the premiership, became home secretary. He retained his previous nominal cabinet post of lord privy seal.

Board of Trade President Peter Thorenycroft, 47, was promoted to chancellor of the exchequer, the post Macmillan held under Eden.

Most diplomats and political observers frankly expressed surprise at the "Eden look" in the Macmillan government.

Observers said the new prime minister deliberately gambled with American support of his administration to show the Middle East there is to be no retreat from Britain's basic demands.

These included international control of the Suez Canal and a settlement of the Arab - Israeli dispute.

Communists in France Suffer Heavy Defeat

PARIS (UP) — Communists in France's strongest Communist district suffered heavy defeat in their first elections since the Hungarian revolt, results of a National Assembly bi-election showed today.

Voters in the largest single electoral district in France went to the polls Sunday to elect a successor to Radical lower house member Vincent de Moro - Giafferri, who died in November.

The first official count of the votes gave a wide majority to Julien Tardieu, 60-year-old company administrator and municipal counselor, running as an independent.

He received 101,293 votes, compared to only 62,787 for Communist candidate Lucien Monjauvis, although the Left Bank district comprising 547,690 voters normally swings heavily to the Communist candidate in any election.

Political observers interpreted the results as indication that French Communists have become bitterly disillusioned by Russia's intervention in the Hungarian revolt.

It also indicated popular support of Premier Guy Mollet's controversial Algerian policy.

Tardieu approved Mollet's firm policy in embattled Algeria, although he opposed the socialist leader's economic policy.

Irish Republican Army Staff Is Under Arrest

DUBLIN, Ireland (UP)—Police arrested the headquarters staff of the outlawed Irish Republican Army today, a government spokesman announced.

Earlier police had reported the arrests of five men they described as "heads of the Irish Republican Army."

The men were taken to Bridewell Prison to join 14 others arrested since the new outbreak of border violence erupted last December. The 14 are charged with offenses against the state, including membership in an illegal organization.

The government spokesman said the five men were holding a secret session in a downtown hotel when police raiders broke in early this morning. The men were identified as Sean Cronin, Laurence Grogan, Charles Murphy, Thomas McGahon and Thomas McCurtain.

They were hustled off to Bridewell under heavy guard and will be charged in court Tuesday, the spokesman said.

"We believe we have arrested the headquarters staff of the organization," the spokesman said.

Army Plans Revision Of Reserve Program; Opposition Is Bitter

WASHINGTON (UP) — The Army announced today a broad scale revision of its reserve program. The new program will require all reservists and National Guardsmen to take at least six months of active duty training.

The revision was bitterly opposed by the National Guard Association, comprising leaders and spokesmen for the guard. The association has charged the move it was part of a Defense Department plan to "relegate the National Guard to a second string position in national defense, if not to destroy it."

Army Secretary Wilber M. Brucker described the new measures as part of "a continuing program" to "improve the combat readiness of the Army reserve components."

The revised program is in line with a new Defense Department policy of emphasizing quality rather than quantity in military reserve forces. This is a shift from the 1955 reserve act, designed to produce a 2.9-million-man "ready" reserve by 1959.

The new Army program takes effect April 1. It provides that all youths with no prior military service who enlist in Army reserve or National Guard units must take a minimum of six months' active duty training.

Hitherto only youths enlisting in the Army reserve were required to take six months of active duty training. This was followed by 7½ years in the "ready" reserve. National Guard enlistees could volunteer for six months active duty but were not required to take it.

The new program reduces the time reservists must participate in the "ready" reserve. After completing their six months' active duty, both guard and reserve trainees will be required to serve only 4½ years additionally in the "ready" reserve. They will then be transferred to the standby reserve for an additional three years. The standby reserve does not require attendance at weekly training drills, as does the "ready" reserve.

Prior to the new program, youths who enlisted in the National Guard were required to continue training drills until they reached 28. They could shorten this obligation to a maximum of eight years, however, by taking six months of active duty training.

Tosses Acid in Face of Singer

TOKYO (UP)— Tokyo police today charged a jealous house maid with throwing acid in the face of Japan's top songstress, 18-year-old Hibari Misora Sunday night.

The maid, Akiko Katori, 19, carried a notebook in which she had scribbled "I love Miss Hibari more than anyone else. How I wish I could turn her into an ugly girl. I can no longer stand her pretty face."

Hearing Jan. 24 On Petition by Ludwig Schlekat

PITTSBURGH (UP)—Ludwig R. Schlekat, convicted of embezzling $600,000 from the Parnassus National Bank of New Kensington, will have a hearing Jan. 24 on his petition for clarification of his sentencing.

The date was set during the week end by Federal Judge Wallace S. Gourley, who had sentenced the banker to 10 years in prison plus an additional 10 years if he failed to pay a $35,000 fine.

Schlekat has been in prison four years. He has not paid the fine.

If the second 10-year prison term does not stand, Schlekat is eligible for parole now.

If the term stands, he won't become eligible until September, 1959.

Federal prisoners are eligible for parole after serving a third of their sentences.

Lester Plant of Westinghouse in Full Recovery

LESTER, Pa. (UP) —William C. Rowland, vice president and mnager of the Westinghouse Electric Co., steam division plant here, said today it has made a "significant recovery toward full operation" following a 10-month strike which ended last August.

In a year-end statement, Rowland said that steam division shipments in the fourth quarter of 1956 were about equal to the shipments level reached in the similar period of 1954——the last full fourth quarter worked at the plant.

He predicted that 1957 would be a "year of increasing production" and said that the backlog of orders was at an "encouraging level."

Rowland said that the manpower losses during the plant shutdown and in the subsequent build-up months were approximately eight per cent.

He described it as "a figure that compares favorably to our normal turnover for a similar period.

Suez Salvage Fleet Is Making Progress

PORT SAID, Egypt (UP)—The United Nations salvage fleet was reported making major progress today in clearing the Suez Canal.

One of the biggest obstructions, part of the wrecked Firdan Bridge, was removed from the waterway Sunday.

Lt. Gen. Raymond A. Wheeler (U.S.A. ret.) in charge of the salvage operations, said he was "optimistic" on the progress being made. He said he saw no reason to revise his original estimation that the canal would be cleared for 10,000-ton ships in March.

Aluminum Industry Planning for Future

NEW YORK (UP)—The nation's aluminum companies finally have caught up with demand and today are mapping plans for the development of new end uses to guarantee their future growth.

Aluminum has been one of America's fastest-growing industries, sparked by mounting demand for the light metal from both military and civilian sources.

The metal now is freely available for the first time since World War II. But this doesn't worry industry leaders. They feel that the improved supply picture will allow development of new end uses for the metal that up to now have been hindered by shortages of aluminum.

These include wider use of aluminum in making cans and in food packaging generally; in automobile appliances, building materials, pleasure boats, garden supplies and a raft of industrial uses.

Predicts Adequate Supply

I. W. Wilson, president of Aluminum Co. of America, notes that "instead of being plagued with the problems of attempting to meet demand, as in the past, manufacturers should at last be able to design and use aluminum in new applications with confidence that the supply will be adequate."

R. S. Reynolds Jr., president of Reynolds Metals Co., said aluminum has been supplying an increasing share of industry's raw materials requirements, particularly in construction, transportation and electrical markets.

"The aluminum industry's drive for new and larger markets will be more powerful than ever before, now that a larger supply is available to prospective as well as present consumers."

Industry spokesmen point out that color-finished aluminum is forging a new market, being featured in building panels, automobile trim and appliance parts.

The principal advantages of aluminum are its light weight, easy workability and freedom from rust.

Frank R. Nichols, president of Nichols Wire & Aluminum Co., says fabricators will spearhead the development of new uses for aluminum, as they have done in the past. He says during the postwar period they pioneered the use of aluminum for such things as nails, window frames, screens, electrical cable, foil, and clothes line.

He notes that even though aluminum was in tight supply for years, fabricators still succeeded in opening new markets. Presently he adds, building materials and transportation account for the biggest percentages of raw aluminum. Both are postwar markets.

Nichols says the fabricator of aluminum has a "built-in superiority over the producer in developing and merchandising new products because of his flexibility and ability to concentrate on one or two products."

Victor Muscat, chairman of Aluminum & Chemical Corp., believes the light metal "stands on the threshold of a new era, with a tremendous new market within grasp, principally in the use of aluminum cans for food, beer and other beverages, and for sundry aerosol uses including toiletries and pharmaceuticals."

Farm Show Opens in Harrisburg Tonight

HARRISBURG (UP)—The 41st annual Pennsylvania Farm Show—a five day agricultural extravaganza—opens tonight with special dedication ceremonies by Gov. George M. Leader.

The governor, expected to be joined by a capacity crowd of 10,000 in the large arena, will formally open the exhibition setting the stage for growers, breeders and exhibitors to compete for a record $58,556 in premiums.

But in advance of the formal opening ceremonies, the doors of the Farm Show buildings were thrown open this morning for the public. Attendance during the first day of the exposition was expected to be cut sharply by heavy snowfall and biting col dthroughout the state.

The governor and his family, together with cabinet officials and newsmen, previewed the show Sunday night and topped off the tour with an anniversary party in the cafeteria. He said the 1957 show represents "the apex of Pennsylvania agriculture today."

The Pennsylvania State Police highlight the opening night with their annual display of precision horsemanship and trick riding.

Show officials estimate some 500,000 persons will flock to the almost 14-acre Farm Show buildings for the five-days and four-nights of exhibitions.

A record 9,942 classifications in 27 departments will vie for the prize money offered the finest products of the state's rich farmlands. Also on view at the free admission show will be the latest developments in agricultural equipment and products.

The mid-winter farm carnival will feature the rural talent festival on Tuesday night, followed on successive evenings by the horse-pulling championships, a livestock parade, sheep dog demonstrations and a six-horse hitch demonstration.

The talent festival will present a cast of hundreds in the theme "We Have it in Pennsylvania." The popular horse-pulling contest will be decided Wednesday night.

Thursday is a big day with the 4-H clubs and Future Farmers of America tractor driving contest in the afternoon and the huge livestock parade and animal demonstrations scheduled for the evening.

Two features, log sawing and horseshoe pitching, have been removed from the competition list this year, but two new events have been added. A Hereford beef cattle sale is slated for Wednesday night and the Christmas tree industry has been granted competitive recognition for the first time.

Both rural and city visitors will have plenty to hold their attention as the annual show continues to grow larger each year. Competitive exhibits exceed 10,000, ranging from nuts to farm work horses.

The first exhibits were brought to the show late last week to be on hand for opening day. In the livestock classes alone, more than 2,000 head of horses, beef and dairy cattle are entered. Poultry displays are expected to be the largest in show history.

Of special interest to the farmers are the 300 commercial exhibitors who have taken over two acres of floor space to display their farm machinery, gadgets and products. Show officials said they had to turn another 100 dealers away because of the lack of space.

The entire show, which closes Friday, is around the theme "Pennsylvania Agriculture Builds for Tomorrow," and tomorrow's farmers will be given recognition Wednesday.

A 20-year-old Susquehanna County youth will be awarded the coveted title of "State Star Farmer of Pennsylvania." The annual Future Farmers of America award is the highest honor given on the state level.

The Keystone FFA Advisory Council said John was chosen because his achievements in scholarship, agriculture and leadership gave him the highest score among all the nominees for the degree.

Steel Industry Will Continue Expansion

CLEVELAND (UP) — Government refusal to grant fast tax amortization for steel expansion put only a dent in the steel industry's building projects, according to Steel Magazine.

The publication said it checked 24 major producers planning new facilities costing $2.3 billion, and found less than $100 million worth will be cancelled.

The 24 steel producers had sought five-year tax write-offs on their building programs.

Bulk of the $100 million in cancellations comes from one firm, steel said, while others, such as Bethlehem, Youngstown and Jones & Laughlin, are still studying their situations.

The magazine said some firms may still drop part of their building programs, but the odds favor that they'll ultimately go ahead with everything.

Failure to get requested tax relief will delay much of the building, Steel said, but despite the change in the time schedules the publication predicted more than 15 million ingot tons of additional capacity would be added by 1958 or early 1959.

The search for capital to finance the building is "the big rub," Steel said, and even blue chip companies are experiencing trouble with the tight money market.

More price increases are likely as a means to get the money and stock issues are in the cards, Steel said.

Steel prices at the mill have increased 1.5 per cent during the last month, and Steel said the higher costs, now felt only by people who buy from the mills, will result in increases at warehouses, which supply steel to a vast number of metalworking plants.

Lukens has authorized a stock split to raise money by stock sales and Armco will also offer new stock that will be allocated to existing stockholders, the magazine said.

Embarrassed Again

ONCE AGAIN Monessen's Community Fund has fallen short of its goal, this time by a margin somewhat larger than the failures of previous years. It is reported that $26,536 has been received against the goal of $32,000. This is only about 83 per cent.

Chairman Edward Lhota has not yet accepted this performance as final and has appointed a clean-up squad, which is now at work. Let us hope it achieves good results.

But whether it does or not, it is all too painfully plain that something is radically wrong with the Community Fund. Unless one is willing to say — and we are not — that the people of Monessen are indifferent to their charitable and civic responsibilities, it is self-evident that the approach is wrong or inadequate and that something must be done about it.

The United Fund plan has been under consideration by a special committee of the Chamber of Commerce which has not yet made a report. And it seems plausible that some such arrangement, which seems to be working admirably in many communities, might be an answer to Monessen's problem.

But the United Fund, after all, is merely an extension of the community chest idea — it is a pooling of energies and resources to make sure that the contributor's dollar goes where it is most needed and to assure that there are enough dollars to meet all of the community's needs and obligations.

There is nothing magic about the United Fund plan, however, that would assure its success where the Community Fund is failing. In fact there might be some reason to think that a city which habitually fails to support its community chest would also have trouble under a United Fund arrangement.

In any event, we think some searching of consciences is in order. And when that is done faithfully, it seems to us quite likely to disclose that many people and many firms simply are not meeting their fair share of this obligation. If they were to do so, we would not have this annual embarrassment.

Mr. Truman's Statement

THE STATEMENT of former President Harry Truman in support of President Eisenhower's request for congressional approval of a Middle East policy, while apparently made somewhat grudgingly, is nevertheless commendably forthright and typically courageous. It should do much to offset the partisan criticisms of Mr. Truman's former Secretary of State, Dean Acheson.

We believe Mr. Truman's statement would have been even better had he avoided the temptation to speak of his own conduct of foreign policy while he was President in such laudatory terms. Mr. Truman no doubt sincerely believes that everything he did was just about right, but it would be much more becoming if he were to let others say so.

Nevertheless, much that Mr. Truman did in the realm of foreign affairs was definitely right, including various actions which he took to prevent Communist aggression. So he is being consistent, as well as patriotic, in supporting President Eisenhower's recommendations for similar action in the Middle East.

Pictures in Court

EXPLAINING why he allowed newspaper photographers to make pictures in the courtroom while a murderer was being sentenced, Judge Alexander Flick, Jr., of Warren County, said:

"Court proceedings are open to the public and the public should be informed as to what goes on. . .

"Pictures may convey a more accurate representation of a court proceeding than the written story of a reporter. I have found by experience that a limited number of press photographers taking pictures without flash equipment, without standing up or moving around, will not disturb the orderly procedure of a trial or distract a witness or anyone else participating in a trial.

"I see no reason why they (photographers) should not be there in every proceding so the public may be informed accurately as to what goes on in court."

No newspaper editor ever stated the case for photographic reporting of court proceedings with better logic.

The Valley can breathe a sigh of relief that Pittsburgh Steel's railroad and the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen agreed on a contract without a strike. What happened to Donora in a similar situation was enough to last a long time.

Merry-Go-Round—

Knowland's Revelation Premature

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON — Real truth is that a slip of the tongue on a recorded broadcast was what caused Sen. William Knowland to shake up the politicians with the announcement that he would not run again.

Mr. Pearson

Knowland was telling the truth, as usual, when he said he wanted to spend more time with his family. However, other factors were also involved.

It's true that Mrs. Knowland, who has two daughters and several grandchildren back in California, has been emotionally tied to them and anxious to be back in California. The Senator calls her frequently from his office during the day. His father is still a vigorous publisher of the Oakland Tribune, despite the age of 83, but has also been talking about having the Senator come home.

In the background also is friction between Knowland and the young man whose meteoric rise has threatened to nudge him out of any ambitions for the presidency — Richard M. Nixon.

This has been apparent to close observers for some time and cropped up again in a minor incident which no one knew about.

Nixon Singled Out

When Republican leaders, called to the White House for a conference, were about to leave, Nixon was asked to stay behind. He was singled out from the other Republican leaders, including Knowland, for special advice.

It was a small incident, but fits into the general White House pattern of bypassing Knowland when Sherman Adams wants anything done on Capitol Hill.

The Knowland-Nixon feud was patched up last summer, and the Senator emphatically came to Nixon's support against Stassen. In return he was promised a greater part in molding American foreign policy. But last fall at the United Nations, Knowland, a delegate, found himself forced to make statements in flat disagreement with Eisenhower policy.

As the Senate opened, there came another showdown. Knowland tried to dissuade Nixon from making a statement against Rule 22 protecting the right to filibuster.

"I have no other choice," Nixon answered, implying that his statement represented the considered policy of the Eisenhower administration.

"The President runs the executive branch, but I'm running the Senate." Knowland is quoted by friends as replying.

Knowland's Slip

All these factors had contributed to Knowland's decision to retire. But he expected to make his decision after Inauguration Day, Jan. 20. This he thought was fair to the President, yet would give him a fair degree of independence during the remaining two years.

A slip of the tongue on a CBS broadcast, however, caused him to announce on Jan. 7, two weeks in advance. Griffing Bancroft was transcribing his "Capitol Cloakroom" program on Monday morning for release at 9:30 that night. Knowland was his guest. Bancroft asked if the Senator had any plans to run for President in 1960, got a noncommital answer; and then with only 30 seconds to go, and more or less to fill up time, he asked:

"Do you plan to seek re-election in 1960?"

"No, I do not," Knowland replied, and immediately wished he had kept his mouth shut.

This was Monday morning. By Monday afternoon the Senator from California decided that it wasn't fair to give such an announcement to one newsman over a commercial program, so called a press conference and made the statement that set Washington buzzing.

J. Edgar Hoover for President

Sen. Joe McCarthy, who began the Senate session with a wild attack on President Eisenhower, is trying to drum up a presidential boom for FBI chief J. Edgar Hoover.

Joe boasts privately that he can get his Texas oil friends to finance Hoover's campaign. They don't like Ike's "modern Republicanism," are sore at him for vetoing the natural gas bill, says Joe.

McCarthy claims the wide publicity given the book "The FBI Story" is only the beginning of Hoover's build-up for the GOP presidential nomination. The big issue in 1960, Joe predicts hopefully, will be Communism. He charges Ike has been coddling Communists, claims the country needs a fighting anti-Red like Hoover.

McCarthy's Hoover-for-President boom, however, is embarrassing the FBI.

"We aren't responsible for what Joe does," the FBI's affable press agent, Lou Nichols, told this column.

The first national constitutions were adopted by the old Roman empire.

Mohammed to Mountain, or Mountain to Mohammed?

From Washington—

Knowland Charts His Course

By ROSCOE DRUMMOND

The nearly unanimous judgment in Washington is that when William F. Knowland of California retires from the Senate next year, he will not be stepping out of national politics: he will be stepping into national politics in a bigger way.

Mr. Drummond

Few, if any, persons in this political - minded capital have any opinion other than that Senator Knowland is headed toward an open, vigorous, sustained effort to obtain the 1960 Republican presidential nomination.

If this be correct — and the Senator is not raising a whisper to deny it — then I venture these conclusions:

That Mr. Knowland has made a sound political decision, that he will have a better chance of getting the presidential nomination outside the Senate than even if he remained as Republican leader.

That a genuine contest for the nomination will prove to be a source of strength to the Republican Party.

That while Vice President Nixon can hardly be expected to relish the "battle of the Californians" which is now in prospect, he will personally be better off with healthy opposition: that is, he will have better prospects of winning the presidency if he doesn't get the nomination by default.

Senate not Good Route

There are several reasons why it is probable that Mr. Knowland can make a better fight for the nomination outside the Senate.

Precedent is decidedly against Congress as a stepping-stone to the presidency. Warren G. Harding was the only member of Congress to get a presidential nomination in the 20th century, and his nomination came about only after the two leading contenders, Frank Lowden and Leonard Wood, fell into unbreakable deadlock. Mr. Republican himself — the late Robert A. Taft of Ohio, with whom Senator Knowland had so much that is worthy in common — never was able to win the presidential nomination from his post in the Senate although an extraordinary number of Ohio governors have gone to the White House. Willkie, Dewey and Eisenhower defeated him.

Evidently Mr. Knowland has decided to seek a different approach.

Most political observers believe that Mr. Nixon is already emerging — and will continue to emerge — as the leading contender to succeed Mr. Eisenhower. If he remains in this position it will be because he stands out as the most authentic spokesman of Eisenhower Republicanism.

Therefore, or so it seems to me, Mr. Knowland will identify his candidacy for the nomination in different terms than are associated with the Eisenhower leadership — somewhat more to the right domestically and somewhat more venturesome and riskful in foreign policy, particularly in measures to counter international Communism. Mr. Knowland is no isolationist and he is no political reactionary, but the candidacy he would offer would certainly be less in the image of Eisenhower than Mr. Nixon's.

Knowland His Own Man

This may be good politics or it may be bad. I doubt if it makes any difference to Senator Knowland. He is just going to be himself. While he has differed sharply and publicly with the administration on important foreign policy matters, while he has always been more a "man of the Senate" than an "administration leader," his retirement from close association with the administration will make it easier for Mr. Knowland to offer the Republican Party some alternative to the Eisenhower leadership.

Of course, nothing would further the Senator's prospects so much as his nomination and election as Governor of California in 1958. If he should take the nomination from Gov. Goodwin Knight — and win — Mr. Knowland would control the state Republican organization, would weaken the Vice President in his home territory, and be in a strategic position from which to challenge Mr. Nixon for the presidential nomination.

If Mr. Knowland does not become California's governor, he will have more time to put in campaigning all across the country during 1959 and 1960. As Adlai Stevenson and Senator Kefauver have demonstrated, it takes long hours and long months to get a presidential nomination or to come near getting it.

I am not suggesting that either the Republican party or the country will want less Eisenhowerism in 1960, but if they do, Mr. Knowland will be very much on hand to offer it in 1960 — or later.

U.S.-British Partnership Is Undergoing Change

By WALTER LIPPMANN

As Anthony Eden goes into retirement, he can take with him the knowledge that his friends are a multitude on both sides of the ocean. For them, the end will not wipe out what went before, those valiant years of the world war era. For them, too, the last word has not been spoken to explain the disaster at Suez, and the time has not yet come for a final judgment. His friends will wish him a good recovery and a quiet mind.

Mr. Lippmann

It was Eden's fate to have to do what Churchill once vowed he would never do, to preside over the liquidation of the British imperial position in the Middle East. Had everyone concerned been much wiser and more reasonable than he was, there might have been a happy transition from empire to a new order of things between East and West.

It was not to be. There has not been the wisdom in the West, that is to say in London, Paris and Washington, to use what remained of their declining power to propose a new order to replace the old. In the East there has been violence and hatred, resentment and fanaticism, to discourage and to frustrate statesmanship.

The intervention at the Suez Canal seems to have been a last desperate gamble to recover a power and an influence that had in fact already been very nearly lost. What little of power and influence remained was wagered and was lost in the disaster.

Alliance Affected

There is no denying the fact that the Anglo-American partnership in world affairs has been affected. This partnership really began with Churchill and Roosevelt in the second World War. Its essence has been consultation and agreement of the highest levels of the two governments in advance of any great decision in foreign affairs. There has always been, certainly for more than a century, the British-American connection. This has meant that in case of war the interests of the two countries would cause them to be on the same side. But the partnership which Churchill and Roosevelt established is a comparatively new thing in British-American relations.

This partnership has been, if not dissolved, then at the very least suspended in the Suez affair. The American complaint is that we were not consulted before the British government began its momentous military action in Egypt. The British complaint is that since the Suez intervention, the American government has refused to consult it about any of its big policies.

The official American view has been that it could never again trust Eden after his failure to consult in October. The corresponding view in England has been that after its experience in negotiating with him over Suez, it could never again trust Dulles. So Washington is relieved that Eden has retired, and London will be relieved when Dulles retires.

The old partnership in its full sense is not, however, a matter of personalities. The partnership is at bottom dependent on common interests and something like parity of power. Thus, even during the World War the Churchill-Roosevelt partnership did not really control the war in the Pacific. Since the World War, except perhaps at certain critical points in the Korean War, there has been no partnership in East Asia.

Cooperation Needed

It now appears that the partnership is dissolved in the Middle East, what with the collapse of British power and the so-called Eisenhower doctrine.

In Europe, however, there is a deep need of the partnership. And, so I venture to think, it is in the working out of a European policy that the partnership, which is now suspended, will be restored. We must suppose that after the disasters abroad, Britain will draw closer to Western Europe. We can be sure that there will be great peril to Europe and to the world unless Western Europe can come to some kind of settlement with Eastern Europe.

In these great and difficult things, London and Washington cannot go their separate ways.

TV Rating Services Appear Mysterious

By MARGARET LATROBE

Television rating services are under the guns of certain performers and newspaper critics who profess little faith in survey results purporting to reveal how many of us were fastened to our sets, entranced by one particular show at a given moment in time and space.

Mrs. Latrobe

Trendex, Neilsen, Pulse and other services in touch with the viewing public at eventide dispense very good news subsequently about one show, very disagreeable tidings about others occupying competitive time. Decimal points are about the most forboding Witch of Endor in the whole doggone TV industry. "Whatcher rating?" is the foreword, text, bibliography and index. Not a program's quality, its appeal or value — just who out-rated whom?

Unrest as to the ratings' accuracy comes about for a number of reasons. One is, how come neither you nor I nor anyone we ever heard of has known anybody who was polled by representatives of any rating service? Odd that we never, but never, have come across a single soul who was invited to reveal what program he watched on the evening of Jan. 11, at roughly 8:42 p. m. —! Or any other night, ever.

Surveyors state that their sampling methods are scientifically planned, that you and I have about as much chance of being queried as we have of being struck by lightning. A few well-chosen hundred TV watchers are selected in a way to reflect the viewing pattern of millions.

Another discrepancy is — how come the same show sometimes receives three wildly divergent ratings from three different rating surveys? These have varied as much as 22.5 to 53.6. Sounds as though something's wacky in the woodshed.

Although low-rated performers are quickest to cry foul at surveys' hands, even high-rated shows aren't immune from displeased sponsors. Millions may design an evening's activity around one 30-minute program without which they're wretched for an entire week. Yet, if the audience came to laugh, not to buy the sponsor's wares — so sorry. The magic carpet is jerked from under even the top show. Right program but wrong product for sale.

Another reason for rating's suspect position is, what do they put down on the report when mamma just turned off the set to answer the phone? Is she listening, or ain't she? And what of the multitudes who never have and never will hear certain programs they'd give their left arms to hear — because this blasted set of theirs can't pick up the required channel? And those who turn on channel X at 7:30 so as not to have to get up and switch from Y to X at 9, when the lineup suits them thence through midnight? You think no one so lazy as all that? Hm.

I believe rating surveys to be as accurate as a social science can be. That they are necessary and highly valuable to sponsoring businesses — otherwise they would never have come into existence. That ratings mean little to the general public. What difference does it make, knowing how many viewed what — if you thought another program superior?

I also note with amusement that TV critics who speak out against the rating services often state. "Sammy Slough's show was seen by 42 million folk." It was? How did the critic know that? Who counted the house? One of those services did, that's who. They accept the findings of ratings, whether they believe in them or not.

Writes Review Of Early Years

By United Press

"It Seems Like Yesterday" by H. V. Kaltenborn (Putnam) is an episodic review of the years between William Jennings Bryan's first presidential campaign and the desegregation dispute, compiled by a man who played a more active part than most in the developments those years produced. Kaltenborn, who campaigned for Bryan in 1896, served as a sergeant in the Spanish-American war which presented America with its first major international commitments, and he has been a front-line chronicler of major events for most of the time since.

He limits his subject matter to occurrences which he has "personally witnessed or currently reported and analyzed." The result emphasizes his acquaintance, at once intimate and extensive, with the modern scene. The book covers every important point in recent U. S. history, and a good many relevant events in foreign countries.

The first national constitutions were adopted by the old Roman empire.

VITAL ENERGY FOR HEALTH
BY
Dr. Frank F. Tucci

The tissue cell is the structural basis of the body. The health of the body is dependent upon the health of the tissue cells.

For a tissue cell to be healthy it must receive oxygen in proper quantities; it must receive nutrition in proper quantity and quality, and it must receive vital nerve energy in proper quantity and quality through the nervous system. The supply of oxyen and nutrition is directed and controlled by the vital nerve energy through the nervous system. Essentially, the health of all tissue cells is directly dependent upon receiving the proper amounts and kinds of vital energy.

For healthy expression of this vital energy in the tissue cells the nervous system must be intact and free from interference to the flow of vital nerve energy, because the nervous system is the medium through which the vital energy is transmitted from brain to all the tissue cells.

If a vertebral subluxation occurs it results in the partial closing of the opening between the vertebrae through which nerves pass. This produces an interference upon the nerves so that the vital energy cannot be transmitted to the cells in normal proportion. Tissue cells become abnormal to the degree that a system or organ of the body becomes involved and one dis-ease or another manifests itself.

For vital energy necessary for vibrant health nerve channels must be kept clear at all times. Make an appointment today for a thorough Chiropractic examination. The Chirapractor will locate and correct any interference that exists between the brain—the source of all vital energy, and the tissue cell . . . and renewed good health will be yours.

Benyak Experiences Novel Problem

Elmer Benyak, the city's former Recreation Director, is confronted with a novel problem in connection with his current basketball coaching job at the exclusive Columbia Prep School in New York City. "All of the students in the school come from well-to-do families," explains Benyak. "They are mannerly and they listen to orders. However some of them probably receive too much parental attention. Recently one of the best boys on our team came down with a smiple head cold. His parents flew him to Florida to recuperate! That left us short-handed. And no less than four boys missed one of our games shortly before Christmas. They were south, vacationing with their parents."

Tommy has been nominated for the novel All-Conference scholastic team which includes only players with averages of "B" or better . . . ## Monessen Girls Top Bowling Lists

Monessen's Fifth Avenue girls have been running away with the current Mon Valley Ladies League bowling race, so it's no surprise to find them dominating the individual statistics. Lucy Faltz has the best average so far: 160.21. Right behind her are teammates Babe Kroskie, 153 08, and Mary Palm, 150 08. Ranking eighth and ninth in the individual race are two more Monessen girls, Pauline Burdock and Helen Skeloski . . . The Charleroi baseball team in the Mon Valley League has gone "big time." Business-manager George Zuraw, who is also the team's top slugger, has ordered a batch of fancy stationary which carries the team emblem . . . Incidentally Zuraw is still scouting for a field-manager. "I'm in a nice position," he quips. "If the manager doesn't treat me right, I'll fire him."

The annual Football Review of the Notre Dame scholastic magazine includes an article by Roger Valdiserri, the Belle Vernon product. Roger reports on his duties as personal secretary to Irish coach Terry Brennan . . . The sports future certainly looks bright at St. Vincent. Basketball boss Dodo Canterna will lose only one starter via graduation. And grid mentor Al DeLuca will miss only two players from last season's club which won five games, lost two and tied one . . . By the way, 1957 opponents for the Bearcat footballers will include Thiel, Indiana State Teachers, King's, Scranton, Waynesburg and Clarion Teachers.

MHS Athletes to Have Additional Exam

From now on Monessen High athletes will be given rigid examinations at the start AND end of every season. School authorities feel the wind-up exam may uncover hidden hurts and thus protect the boys for the future . . . In Charleroi they've organized a Curbstone Coaches Club to follow the basketball campaign. The new group will be a counter-part of the Quarterback Club. Weekly luncheon meetings will be held to discuss various phases of the game . . . No less than 60 hopefuls have applied for the football coaching vacancy at Meadville High No wonder, though. School officials advertised the position just about everywhere in the state.

Baseball Clown Tells Of His Experiences

By OSCAR FRALEY

NEW YORK (UP)—Max Patkin, baseball's busiest clown, can best be described as a pitch-out Paglacci.

With him, of necessity, it's "Laugh, clown, laugh." And, like the operatic fall guy, many is the time when the smile has to be forced through the tears

Like the time he killed 'em in Elmira—and almost wound up the same way himself.

"I do a bit where I faint when the umpire makes a bad call," he said, fingering a four inch scar on his forehead. "The trainer is supposed to rush up and douse me with a bucket of water He did But he crowned me with the bucket. The crowd loved it They roared. So did I when they put in 10 stitches."

The lean, angular Patkin does another rib-tickling stunt when he grabs all the bats in the rack and staggers to the plate like a mighty hitter. ("A good act for a guy who got six hits in four years of pro ball.")

Stunt Backfires

"Then I fall with all of the bats," he explained. "Usually they go forward and miss me. But this night in Williamsport somebody stuck the lead practice bat in the pile and they fell backward and hit me in the kidney. I couldn't straighten up for a week."

Then, too, there are always those fun-loving characters who, like to get into the act Like Mickey Vernon, who mixed flour into the dousing water bucket one night in Wasnington, and Al Lopez and Jimmy Dykes, who improved on that technique with a surprise mixture of ice water and mud

The six-foot three-inch Patkin, who is so angular that he seems all arms and elbows, was on his way to being a pretty fair pitcher when he started with 10 wins in the Wisconsin State League in 1941 But the next year a base runner plowed into him and ruined his pitching arm

"I was always irrepressible—or goofy—and liked to clown around," he grins "So when I was in service, fooling around in the service games in Honolulu, one day I left the coaching box and followed Joe DiMaggio around the bags after he hit a homer We crossed the plate almost in lockstep and they ignored Joe and congratulated me"

That sent Patkin off on a baseball comedy career which takes him 30 000 miles every summer to do his zany, laugh-provoking act at some 75 ball park

"And some of them are so small," he laughs, "that I almost have to parachute in."

But Maxie has never missed a date, no matter how small, and he has performed in snow storms and once kept them in the aisles as a cyclone whipped around a ball park in Nebraska.

Hornung Main Speaker at Holy Name Banquet

Paul Hornung, Notre Dame's brilliant quarterback, entertained more than 650 Holy Name men during a banquet at Twin Coaches last night with a humorous review of the Irish football season

The Heisman Memorial Trophy winner blamed injuries and a loss of confidence for the poor Notre Dame record in 1956.

However he proved that the Irish can take defeat gracefully by recapping every game in a fashion which had the big crowd laughing all the way

Hornung was the featured speaker at the banquet sponsored by Holy Name Societies in 17 district Catholic parishes

Also speaking was Al DeLuca, veteran football coach at St Vincent College

Emphasizes Education

The accomplished DeLuca emphasized the importance of education in the modern-day world.

Remarks were offered by Joe Gouger, of Monessen, who is president of the Holy Name District and by Rev. Gerald Schroath, Diocesan chaplain of the Holy Name Society.

Rev John Stofick, pastor of St John's in Perryopolis and district chaplain, gave the invocation while Rev. Leonard Sanesi, of St. Cajetan in Monessen, delivered the benediction.

To Tour Nation

NEW YORK (UP) —Hungarian Olympic athletes will leave today on a nation wide tour to raise money for their strife-torn country The Hungarians will make their first stop at Norwalk, Conn, where the fencers and gymnasts will perform in exhibitions.

Hounds Take Time From Section 5 Play For Exhibition Tilt

Monessen High's entertaining basketballers will take time out from their Section 5 duties tomorrow to play host to Washington.

That game will be worthwhile if for no other reason than the Prexies brilliant James (Beanie) Gordon.

He is regarded by many as the finest player in the WPIAL this season. Certainly he will go down as one of Washington's all-time greats.

Gordon is no newcomer to Monessen fans He's been a Washington regular since his sophomore year.

Moreover Beanie made a big hit in last year's Ozarks Tournament He was seriously considered for the most valuable player award in the senior division even though he was competing against a flock of college stars

Class by Himself

Gordon is simply in a class by himself He has a variety of shots is a clever dribbler, passes well and is great on defense

His only defect is his size Beanie is a couple of inches under six feet.

The Prexies have a pretty good cast to go with Gordon and they are rated as solid bets to wind up in the WPIAL Tournament again All of which adds luster to tomorrow's game.

There will be lots of activity in the Section 5 campaign too Charleroi will go to Bellmar, Monongahela will appear at Brownsville and Donora will trek to California

Coach Henry Pennline's Cougars are heavily favored to beat Bellmar and thus pull even with Monessen in the Section 5 standings

Have Passed Tests

The Charlerolans have successfully passed two league assignments to date, while Bellmar has yet to win after three tries.

Donora, finally living up to its pre-season billing, is still very much a contender, having won two of three assignments so far. However the Dragons must get by hot-and-cold California to stay in the thick of it.

In Section 10, Rostraver faces a big game at Ramsay. An upset win for the Leps will hoist them to the top of the standings.

At the moment, Ramsay heads the Section 10 class with a pair of wins in as many outings. Rostraver is sporting a 2-1 record.

Other games will send Scottdale to Ligonier and Derry Twp to Hurst

No tussles are on tap in Section 17

The Junior High quints will be active tomorrow afternoon

Locally Monessen (1-1) will play host to undefeated Donora (2-0) The visitors are being touted as the team most likely to upset Charleroi this year

In other Section 2 games Charleroi will be at Monongahela and Washington will go to California.

In Section 3, undefeated Rostraver will appear at Vernon, Fallowfield will go to Perryopolis and Carroll Twp will show at Marion.

BOWLING

By JOE JANNOTTA

Like all other sports, duckpin bowling has developed a glossary of terms.

Some readers have asked that I define these terms, so that they m ght follow the old timers when the talk turns to bowling.

Here goes:

Anchor — The last man in the team lineup.

Basket — The 2-4-5-8 or 3-5-6-9 pins left standing after the first ball.

Bread-Line — The 1-2-4-7 or the 1-3-6-9 spare leave.

Miss — Failure to make a conventional spare.

Chop — Chopping off front pin or pins on a spare shot.

Centers — Continuously cutting through the middle on the first ball.

Cut a Duece — Hitting either 2 and 8 or 3 and 9 pins perfectly full.

Dead Ball — An ineffective ball, or ball that does not have mixing action on the pins.

In Wednesday's column we'll continue our bowling glossary.

Rechichar Stars in Pro Bowl

Ex-Rostraver Athlete Named Game's Best

Bert Rechichar, former Rostraver High School athlete, stole the show yesterday as the West defeated the East, 19-10, in the National Football League's seventh annual pro bowl game in the Los Angeles Memorial Coliseum.

Rechichar, a defensive back for the Baltimore Colts during the regular season, booted field goals of 52, 44, 42 and 41 yards for the western stars.

As a result, he was an overwhelming choice as the outstanding back of the game. Sportswriters also named Pittsburgh's Ernie Stautner as the top lineman.

A crowd of 44,177 looked on as Rechichar staged his sensational kicking performance.

By winning the West took a 4-3 lead in the annual charity rivalry staged by the Los Angeles Publishers Assn.

Takes Early Lead

The West jumped into an early lead in the first period when linebacker Joe Schmidt of Detroit recovered a fumble by Ollie Matson of the Chicago Cardinals on the East's 12. Rick Casares of the Chicago Bears punched 10 yards in two plays and Brown sneaked it through into the end zone from the one-half yard marker. Bobby Layne kicked the extra point.

The East tied the score in the second quarter on a 40-yard drive. New York's Frank Gifford fumbled into the end zone on an attempted plunge through the line but New York's Kyle Rote recovered. Sam Baker converted.

Rechichar kicked a 41-yard field goal in the last second of the second quarter. The East tied the score at 10-10 with a field goal by Baker in the third period.

Blames Pass Interceptions

The West forged into a 13-10 lead by driving 32 yards in 11 plays to put Rechichar in position for a 44-yard boot and another field goal. The final two field goals came in the last quarter with a 44-yard boot which followed an 18-yard power run by Alan Ameche of the Baltimore Colts. The clinching field goal, the 52-yard boot, came after Jack Christiansen of Detroit intercepted a Chuck Conerly pass.

The losing coach, Jim Lee Howell of the New York Giants, blamed the loss on pass interceptions. "It was a terrific game. We gave up six passes on interceptions, however, and you can't win a game that way."

Bell Happy with New Cincy Pact; Nuxhall Signs

CINCINNATI (UP)—Center fielder Gus Bell was so happy with his new 1957 contract today that he said he would "like to spend the rest of my baseball days in a Cincinnati uniform."

Pitchers Joe Nuxhall and Don Gross also signed, making a total of 20 Cincinnati players already under contract.

Given a raise for his 1956 performance which included 29 homers, 4 runs batted in and a .292 batting average, the 28-year-old Bell claimed he was never happier in his entire career.

"My family and I have really found a home in Cincinnati," he said. "The ball club, the fans and everyone have treated us wonderfully from the first day we arrived in town."

Nuxhall, also given a boost, likewise expressed satisfaction over his new contract. He won 13 games, lost 11 and had a 3.72 average.

Gross, who had a 3-0 record with the Redlegs last season, said he hoped he could be the starting pitcher Cincinnati is looking for this year.

Hart Favored In Bout Tonight

NEW YORK (UP) — Garnett (Sugar) Hart, remarkable young Philadelphia welterweight, is favored at 3-1 to register his 10th straight victory tonight in a 10-rounder with young Gene Johns of New York at St. Nicholas Arena.

Their bout will be televised by Dumont at 9:30 p.m. EST.

Hart, who scored five straight knockouts in his five starts last year, hasn't been beaten since he was stopped in the first round by Fred Terry, March 22, 1955. That was his lone defeat in 19 fights as a professional. At 21, he boasts 16 knockouts.

Johns' chief claim to fame is that he happens to be a protege of ex-middleweight champion Sugar Ray Robinson. A light puncher, 22-year-old Gene scored only two knockouts in his 22 bouts. He lost four and had two draws, but never was stopped. He is attempting his first 10-rounder.

Fort Wayne in Baseball Lead

By UNTED PRESS

Two free throws by George Yardley moved the Fort Wayne Pistons into a slender half-game lead today in the Western Division of the National Basketball Association at the All-Star Game interval in the season.

Yardley's two one-pointers were the difference in the closing seconds at Fort Wayne Sunday as the Pistons nipped the St. Louis Hawks. Fort Wayne thus moved an eyelash ahead of the Rochester Royals, who dropped a 91-85 decision to the Syracuse Nationals in Syracuse.

In other Sunday games, Minneapolis rallied to beat Boston, 104-87, at Indianapolis, Ind., and New York gained an even split in a weekend series by downing Philadelphia, 101-90.

CLEMSON, S. C., Jan. 12 (UP)—Clemson halfback Joel Wells, the Green Bay Packers' No. 2 draft choice, said Friday he signed with the Montreal Alouettes "because they offered more money." Tackle Bill Hudson, a teammate of Wells at Clemson, also signed with the Alouettes.

Jackie Robinson Will 'Officially' Retire Today

NEW YORK (UP)—Jackie Robinson, who is leaving 'em mad in Milwaukee, was scheduled to make his retirement from baseball final and official today.

Robinson's new employer, a restaurant chain, announced that the veteran Brooklyn Dodger star will "dictate his letter of retirement" in their offices and invited reporters to watch his dictation technique.

Once the letter is written, signed, and mailed, Robinson is officially out of baseball—and his Dec. 13 trade from the Dodgers to the New York Giants is cancelled. The Dodgers then will have to give back to the Giants the $30,000 in cash and pitcher Dick Littlefield they received.

Robinson's statement during the weekend that night-clubbing by two key players helped beat the Milwaukee Braves in last year's pennant race still was drawing fire from Braves' officials and fans today, even though Jackie withdrew the remark Saturday and said he felt "I am wrong in this case, even though the source of my information is reliable."

In Santa Barbara, Calif., Braves' star third baseman Eddie Mathews suggested tartly that Robinson "is just trying to gain more publicity," and added, "He probably intends to write another magazine story."

Mickey Wright Wins Golf Event

SEA ISLAND, Ga. (UP) — After three years of battling, Mickey Wright of San Diego, Calif., appears ready to elbow her way into the top ranks of the Ladies Professional Golf Association

The blonde Miss Wright staged a rally on the back nine Sunday to win the fourth annual Sea Island women's invitational open with a 54-hole total of 220 after the gallery had just about counted her out of the running against veterans Louise Suggs of Sea Island and Patty Berg of St. Andrews, Ill.

Miss Suggs woundup with 75—22 for second place followed by the durable Patty Berg with 76—224. Next came Betty Dodd, San Antonio, Tex., with 71—230 while Mary Lena Faulk, Thomasville, Ga., defending champ Marlene Bauer Hagge, Delray Beach, Fla., and Wiffi Smith, St. Clair, Mich., were tied at 231.

Unbeaten Kansas Faces Tough Test at Iowa State Tonight

By UNITED PRESS

Tonight could tell the tale on whether Kansas, the nation's No. 1 basketball team, will go through the season unbeaten.

Putting a perfect 12-0 record on the line, Kansas invades Ames, Iowa, tonight for a meeting with Iowa State—a team it was able to defeat by only 58-57 on a neutral court last month in the Seven pre-season tournament.

If the Jayhawks can get by this one, they'll have only 10 games to go for a perfect season with another game against Iowa State (but this time in Kansas on Feb. 2) and two tilts with Nebraska looming as the chief obstacles.

NC Rolls

North Carolina, the nation's No. 2 team and the only other major college still on the unbeaten list with a perfect 14-0 record, faces only nine more hurdles to the end of the regular season. And the Tar Heels' biggest test also may come this week, Tuesday night, when they visit arch-rival North Carolina State.

After that, North Carolina still will have another meeting with State, two with high-ranked Duke, and one with high-ranked Wake Forest as the top items on the schedule.

Win Saturday

Both of the national leaders posted victories Saturday night to lead a general advance of ranked and favored teams. Each had the benefit of a 30-point individual effort—Wilt (The Stilt) Chamberlain tossing that many, including seven in the last three minutes, to give Kansas a 51-45 decision over Kansas State, and Lennie Rosenbluth of the Tar Heels hitting 30 in a 102-90 romp over Virginia.

Only three teams ranked among the nation's top 20 were beaten Saturday — eighth-ranked Oklahoma A&M, which bowed, 64-52, to a Houston team that hit 45.6 per cent of its shots; ninth - ranked Vanderbilt, a 68-66 loser to Mississippi; and 13th-ranked Minnesota, which took an 89-66 whaling from Iowa's Big Ten champions, led by Tom Payne's 24 points.

Austrians Sweep Ski Competition

WENGEN, Switzerland (UP) — Anderl Molterer led six Austrian skiers who swept the slalom event of the International Lauberhorn Trophy Meet Sunday, first skiing classic of the European season. Molterer made two runs of 62.1 and 59.4 for an aggregate of 121.5 seconds.

The latch needle, used in knitting, first was patented in France in 1806 by Jandeau.

Hebert Leading Money-Winner On Current Tour

PEBBLE BEACH, Calif. (UP)—Jay Hebert, a Louisiana Frenchman who licked the Japs at Iwo Jima but never before could conquer the touring golf professionals, headed south of the border today with the first golfing victory of his career behind him and the position as the leading money winner of the young 1957 tour.

Hebert, 33, won the pro division of the $15,000 Bing Crosby pro-amateur tournament here Sunday and collected $2,500 for that. He and his partner, amateur Roger Kelly of Los Angeles, finished second in the pro - amateur division and he picked up $875 extra there. That gave him $3,375 for the weekend's work.

So that he headed for the Calidente Open at Tijuana with winnings of $7,125.

Hebert shot a two-under-par 70 that gave him a 213 total for the 54-hole tournament.

That was two strokes better than the 215 posted by defending champion Dr. Cary Middlecoff, who posted an even par 72.

Middlecoff, who had won the pro division twice in a row, came in second and got $1,500 for that. The doctor was paired with amateur Ed Crosley of Los Angeles and San Francisco to win the pro-amateur division and picked up another $1,500 there—so he fared well. Their best-ball score was a record-shattering 187.

Stan Leonard of Vancouver, B. C., finished in third place in the pro division with a 216 total, good for $1,000; and Walter Burkemo, Royal Oak, Mich., came next with a 219, which paid $700.

There was a four-way tie at 220 between Lloyd Mangrum, Apple Valley, Calif.; Paul O'Leary, Bismark, N. D.; Ken Venturi, San Francisco; and Wesley Ellis, Westbury, N. Y., each collecting $350.

Runner-up in the pro - amateur division, each with a 196 score, were Hebert and Kelly and Ed Oldfield, Roseburg, Ore., and ex-All American football star Ernie Nevers.

The "prime meridian" from which time is gauged was fixed at Greenwich, England, in 1884.

Set Bouts for The Gardens

NEW YORK (UP)—The International Boxing Club has announced the following bouts for Madison Square Garden: Yama Bahama of Bimini, BWI vs Isaac Logart of Cuba, Feb. 1; Isidor Martinez of Panama vs Bobby Courchesne of Chicopee, Mass., Feb. 8; Spider Webb of Chicago vs Neal Rivers of Las Vegas, Feb. 15, and Baby Vasquez of Mexico vs Paoli Rosi of New York, March 1.

Gomez Suffers Twisted Neck

SAN JUAN, P. R. (UP)—X-rays have revealed that pitcher Ruben Gomez of the New York Giants suffered only a twisted muscle in his neck while attempting a shoestring catch for Sannturce Saturday instead of a broken collarbone as was feared at first.

USW Talking Wage Increases

PHILADELPHIA (UP) — The United Steelworkers of America closed a two day regional conference here Saturday night with a promise to seek "substantial" wage increases and other benefits when the present three year contract expires in 1959.

The meeting closed without an expected protest over boosting of dues from $3 to $5 monthly. A dispute was anticipated because leaders of a dues protest committee were among delegates attending the conference.

Union president David J. McDonald told the conference of 1,000 representatives from Pennsylvania, New Jersey and Maryland that the benefits were needed because of a "continual rising standard of living...and increased productivity of workers."

McDonald said supplemental unemployment benefits "must" be liberalized to give workers 75 per cent of their take home pay when laid off.

He added that insurance programs should be non-contributory and called on the steel industry to help persuade physicians to accept medical insurance as full payment for all medical bills.

McDonald also charged that union presidential candidate Donald G. Rarick told "a plain, unmitigated lie" when he claimed he was offered a $250,000 bribe to drop his campaign against McDonald.

The USW head also said the union favors legislation under which the federal government would pay the multi-million dollar cost of deepening the Delaware River channel to 40 feet between Philadelphia and Morrisville, Pa.

"We are fully convinced that the 40-foot channel would be of tremendous value to the Delaware Valley...and in the long run will benefit the economic health of the entire nation," he added.

Two Burned in Fayette Fire

CONNELLSVILLE, Pa. (UP)—A Fayette County couple was hospitalized today in critical condition with burns suffered in a fire which destroyed their rural mountain home.

Officials at Connellsville State Hospital said Raymond Pirl, 23, and his wife, Sara, 16, might have died in the Saturday night blaze at their isolated Mill Run RD 2 home.

Their own sheer courage and the assistance of an unidentified stranger who did not wait for thanks were credited with saving their lives.

Despite first, second and third degree burns over his entire body, Pirl carried his unconscious wife to the family car and attempted to drive the 10 miles to the hospital. He collapsed at the wheel five miles short of his goal but the passing stranger carried them into his car and brought them to the hospital.

Pirl said the fire broke out when he attempted to recharge a smoldering kitchen stove blaze with gasoline. The stove exploded, shooting flames at his wife and himself. Mrs. Pirl collapsed under the searing burns.

Pirl, with no telephone or neighbors available to call for assistance, decided their only chance for survival would be in going to the hospital by themselves. They made the 10 mile journey with the stranger's assistance in 45 minutes.
